Letters From the Trail

Bringing pioneer history and literature into your classroom

Enjoy a visit from "Mrs. Annabelle Smith" of the Oregon Trail, who will delight your students with stories from the trail and deliver 20 handwritten letters from children on the westward migration.

Use the provided curriculum to engage your students with language conventions of the time, reading and drawing conclusions, as well as presenting in front of the class.

Pear Cousin Lucy

Vear Lousin Lung all is well, but we are sorely fired and miserable on these mountain passes. Even as the oxen of prear ready to colapse I too feel I could sleep until judgement and course and course which things before up most day - 3/though I dare not say such things before papa. Each day brings new hardships - the worst of Papa. Each day brings new hardships - the worst or which today was a lack of water. This dry land and the choking dust make one feel like an old Tanathan turned and the choring aust make one teel line and bone in the dryest desert. Jon athan turned soven yeterday you will recall my brother. He is seven yeteraay you will recall my protection the s still lame from that snakebike, and must ride in the wagon, when he is not riding of Bessie with For his highling of Bessie with the wagon, when he is not riding of Bessie with David. For his birthday Papa told his favorite played a harmonica two for him. I have to help and washing the most

Ma with the camp cooking and washing

Now Booking!

Cost: $75 per classroom

Visit www.SingingCreekCenter.org for more information We are a 501 c(3) non profit organization.

541-968-1986

